

Buffalo Fans Out For Fall Sports

With the advent of crisp, invigorating weather, Buffalo fans are renewing their interest in sports—both as spectators and participants. Visiting popular spots for sports lovers, The Express photographer snapped pictures shown on today's pages. At upper left, sideline boosters between hockey plays at the Park School in Snyder are, from left, the Misses Eugenie Cowan, Nancy Panoff and Nancy Stone.

A tense moment in the Cleveland Browns-Buffalo Bills game is registered in the faces in Civic Stadium at upper right. In the front row, four at left are, from left, Warren Bicknell, Jr., of Cleveland, Mrs. Henry W. Comstock, Mrs. Bicknell and Mr. Comstock. In the center left, Frederick T. Williams, Mrs. Williams and right, R. Spaulding, view the game at the stadium.

At football practice at the Park School, center right is a player in the front line, from left, Seth Bridge, Jack MacKenzie and Warren Bridge. Back row, same order, Richard Carl, Fred Carl and Warren MacKenzie. "Bullyingsup" at hockey at the Park School in Snyder, from left, the Misses Diana Moore, Faith Stearns and Nancy Morey.

Today's "New Look" Replica Of Pictures in Family Album

By RITA I. SMITH

It's a common subject today over teacups and bridge hands that a girl is "old fashioned if she's modern, and modern if she's old fashioned." Which means that if milady looks like grandma did 50 years ago, she's right in the style parade—even to the long hemlines, tied back hair fastened with a giant plaid bow ribbon, and ballerina bustle skirts. If she's still apron effect caught at the waist and into a quaint cascade of hair and topped with a wide-sleeved blouse fastened at the throat with a canoodle bow, or a gold locket on a loom watch chain? What's coming now, in view of today's fashion trends?

And further proof that the young miss is reminiscent of